This month’s featured farm is near the Texas-Arkansas border at American Heritage Gardens in Wake Village.

American Heritage Gardens is a young company that mostly grows heirloom tomatoes and red tomatoes. The company was opened not too long ago by William Weitzel, who is more than 80 years old. Running a farm is something Mr. Weitzel always wanted to do and when he finally started, he only had a half-acre of land.

American Heritage Gardens is now able to grow about 13,000 tomatoes using both old-fashioned and newer farming styles, like using a greenhouse. With a small, hard-working staff, American Heritage Gardens grows delicious tomatoes.
